Aims of the conference: Creating a forum for people involved in river research and rafting for goods and tourism to present their work. A wide range of issues/topics relates to the economic and cultural use of watercourses and their role in nature, with particular emphasis on rafting. The conference will also provide an opportunity to discuss current problems and challenges related to river use research.

Conference topics:

- old and contemporary rafting (and rafting organizations),
- river transport and rafting techniques,
- tourism and recreation on and by rivers,
- water sports on the rivers,
- river regime and possibilities of their economic use,
- the role of rivers in regional development,
- riverside landscape and its transformations,

- rivers in cultural heritage and art,
 - hydrological education and rafting in education,
 - hydraulic structures and riverbed development,
 - hydropower,
 - morphological and fluvial processes in rivers,
 - economic use of water and river protection.
- The above topics areas are examples; we invite you to go beyond them. Case studies will also be accepted.
